

College enrollment quite possibly highest on record

by Dennis J. Neumann

More students have enrolled for the fall 2002 term at United Tribes Technical College than at any time in the last decade and perhaps the school's 33-year history. According to official figures from the UTTC registrar's office, 356 college students met the September 20th deadline to register for the fall term. That compares with 306 last year and 322 in the fall of 2000, the next highest enrollment year.

"We know the demand is there," Dr. David M. Gipp, UTTC President. "All around the region the population is young and growing in Indian country. We have an average of 175 students waiting to get in."

Thirty-nine different tribes are represented in the Fall 2002 college student population. The students come from 13 states.

As of the first week in October seven students had withdrawn, leaving college enrollment at 349, said Myra Vasquez, Assistant UTTC Registrar. The college once employed a monthly pattern of open entry and exit making it difficult to compare with current enrollment figures by semester. Not included in the fall enrollment figures are students involved in distance education, instructional video network (IVN) classes, or those who attend special training or workshops sessions.

As everyone knows, college students aren't the only students on the UTTC campus. Including elementary, preschool and toddlers, the total student population for the fall term is 575, possibly another "all time high" figure.

Some UTTC students cracking more than books

Do you know how to squeeze the juice out of a coconut? If not, you'd want Marshall Fox (at right) and Michael Linklater along if you were "castaway" on a deserted island. The two food science students learned the secret to getting past the rock-hard shell (which you cannot squeeze no matter how tough you are) to the sweet juice and familiar edible core. The class focused on grocery store items that could make up a person's five daily helpings of fruits and vegetables. Fruits and vegetables are in demand since UTTC was named a "5 plus 5" community by the ND Health Department.

year." According to Principal Sam Azure students from 16 different tribes make up the official enrollment of 132.

"That's about what we can handle comfortably," Azure said. "We're full staffed and running smoothly."

In the past, Theodore Jamerson had as many as 147 students in grades K to 8 but the facility is too small for that, said Azure.

Preschool enrollment is reported at 31 and 56 youngsters are in the Infant Toddlers program.

Combine student enrollment with the number of staff and faculty and you have a community bigger than most small towns in North Dakota. "The paid staff is 259," said Wanda Soza, UTTC Personnel Director. That brings the total UTTC population to 834.

With a population of 834, UTTC would be the 65th largest community in North Dakota, said Jerry Hjelmstad, Assistant Director of the North Dakota League of Cities. "Napoleon is number 64 with a population of 857," said Hjelmstad. "Mohall would be next with 812." The number of incorporated towns and cities smaller than UTTC is 295, he said.

"We really are a community within a community," said Gipp.

According to Gipp, enrollment and campus population figures underscore the need to address the shortage of on-campus housing. The college recently received notice of a $1.6 million U. S. Department of Education grant. The money will used to create "new and better housing," he said.

The First Annual Early Childhood Curriculum Institute held

by Lisa Azure

The First Annual Early Childhood Curriculum Institute was held at the Jack Barden Student Life and Technology Center, United Tribes Technical College (UTTC) July 22 - 26, 2002. The focus of the institute was "Weaving Native Language, Technology and Parent Involvement Into Curriculum".

Kathy Johnson (Mandan, Hidatsa, Arikara), North Dakota Infant Toddler Coordinator Director, and Lisa Azure, Department Chair for Early Childhood at UTTC, coordinated the conference. Presenters included UTTC staff/faculty, Infant Toddler Coordinators from throughout the state as well as other early childhood professional trainers. Dr. Ramona Klein (Turtle Mt. Chippewa), ND Early Care & Education Professional Development Coordinator was the featured speaker. Her presentation was entitled "Laugh for the Health of It".

Institute participants from throughout the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Oregon and Nebraska were in attendance. They received training in the culturally-relevant Early Childhood Curriculum developed by the United Tribes Early Childhood staff and faculty.

Alert

In North America and Europe, children are more frequently infected than are adults and Caucasians more frequently than other ethnic groups. Lice are unable to fly nor jump, and also unlikely to wander far from their preferred habitat. Lice are unable to burrow into the scalp. Head lice derive nutrient by blood feeding once or more often each day, and cannot survive for more than a day or so at room temperature without ready access to a persons blood.

WHY ARE CHILDREN SENT HOME FROM SCHOOL? (The no nits Policies)

The no nits policy is drafted by school and the Student Health Center aimed to reduce the transmission of lice by excluding infested children from school.

FROM WHOM DID MY CHILD ACQUIRE HEAD LICE?

Head lice are acquired from other infested people. Upon learning of their child's infestation, parents frequently seek to ascribe blame. This knee jerk reaction is understandable but unproductive. The offending lice came from some other person but it is not currently possible to determine the identity of the donor. Parents are encouraged to focus their energies on education and treatment rather than on unsuccessful witch hunts.

WHAT METHODS CAN I USE TO TREAT INFESTATION?

First, ensure that a correct diagnosis identification has been made before considering treatment options. Treatment should be considered only when active lice or viable eggs are observed.

1. Mechanical removal: Mechanically removing lice and nits can be effective but time consuming. Comb daily until no live lice are discovered. May take as much as 2 weeks.

2. Pyrethroid insecticides: Infestations may be treated with shampoos containing permethrin or pyrethrins specifically labeled for use on people. A second treatment may be necessary 7 -10 days later.

3. Non-pyrethroid insecticides: Other insecticides should be avoided unless prescribed by a doctor. Lindane is an active agent within pediculicides available by prescription.

4. Essential oils: Numerous at home recipes and commercial preparations are based on mixture of essential oils, salts, and other natural substances. Data is lacking to support the claims of their efficacy.

5. Heat: The hot dry air produced by hair dryers may suffice to kill lice and their eggs on a person hair. Use great care if you try this method as you may risk burning the scalp.

WHAT SHOULD BE CLEANED?

Washing and drying (with heat) the pillowcases, sheets, night clothes, towels and stuffed animals may possibly eliminate lice and eggs. Combs, brushes, hats and other hair accessories in contact with an infested persons should be washed in hot water each day to dislodge any lice and nits.

The Student Health Center nurses will be doing the monthly head check exams at the elementary schools and day care centers on October 10 & 11, 2002.

If your child has been positive for the hair exam, you may obtain the medicated shampoo at the Student Health Center.

Tips for Success with Online Learning

by Leah Woodke

United Tribes Technical College is offering several courses online this semester. The list includes:

- Police Report Writing
- Composition
- Health, Safety and Nutrition
- Readings in Native American Literature
- Introduction to Public Health
- Introduction to Injury Epidemiology

- Introduction to Psychology
- Culture and Diversity in Education

Over 40 students are taking courses online. Some are taking more than one course online. This is a new way of learning for some students, so the Distance & Continuing Education Department tries to provide support to make this a successful experience. You may find the following "Tips for Success" helpful if you are an online learner:

#1 Discussion Room

One of the requirements for online coursework at United Tribes Technical College is the Discussion Room. Each learner is required to answer the instructor's question as well as respond to another learner's response to the question. Look at the question posted by your instructor early in the week. Try to respond to the question by the middle of the week. If everyone has posted his or her answer by the middle of the week you will have a chance to think about which one you want to respond to. Finally, try to respond to someone's answer that no one else has. That way, no one feels left out of the "conversation".

#2 Time Management

Online courses are not held at a designated time or place. Therefore, they are easy to ignore. If you schedule a time when you commit to working on your online coursework, you will be more likely to keep up with the course. The key is to stick to the schedule you create for yourself. Since the amount of time you can spend on a computer may be limited, you may want to print out your assignments.

#3 Timely Communication

Check your email at least once per day. It is the most efficient and effective way for your instructor to communicate with you.

#4 Dealing with Technical Difficulties

Some technical difficulties cannot be avoided. Hackers and others continually try to bring the Internet down and can attack the servers. Even big names like Microsoft, eBay, and Amazon can be brought down on occasion. Still other times, you may "time out" of your course site if you are inactive too long. This is a safety feature provided by United Tribes Technical College. One of the ways to avoid the frustration that comes when assignments are lost in Cyberspace is to save your work. Copy the assignments from your course and paste them into a word processing document like Word or AppleWorks. Then save it to disk or to your computer's hard drive. Type your answers into that document and save. When you are ready to post your answers, all you have to do is copy them from the document and paste them into the appropriate areas online. This is a useful strategy for the journal, lesson questions, and for the discussion board.

#5 "Help, I'm Failing and I Can't Catch Up!"

We have probably all procrastinated in something over our lifetime. What do you do when you fall behind? Some people quit. Some people complain to others about how it is not their fault and make excuses. Others even blame someone else for their being behind. Strong learners, however, kick things into gear and decide to get caught up. Be a strong learner. Contact your instructor because he or she is in the best position to help guide you as you work to get caught up. Contact Online Learner Support (Barb Archambault) if you would like assistance. Find a friend to help encourage you to work through the assignments rather than give up. The point is...don't give up or panic, but work through it. You will be glad you did. Of course, the best scenario is to keep up with the coursework and meet the deadlines.

Donna Iszler

Nursing Department has new staff member

by Jesi Silbernagel

Donna Iszler was hired August 19th, 2002. She moved here from Appleton, Wisconsin, where she worked as a nursing instructor at Fox Valley Technical College. Donna is originally from the Dakotas and lived in Wisconsin for only three years. When her children moved back to North Dakota, she thought it would be nice to spend more time with grandchildren, so she moved back too.

Donna specializes in psychiatric nursing and geriatrics nursing. She loves her new job because the small classes allow her to spend more one-on-one time with each student. Besides doing her job, she likes sewing, musicals, and plays. Donna always seems to be in a good mood.

Student & Campus Services holds informational session

By Jesi Silbernagel

On Friday, October 4th, 2002, Student and Campus Services held an informational gathering at the cafeteria to get to know students and describe our services. The turn out was great!

A lot of students came out to our small social gathering to meet people in the department and learn about our services. We also got to enjoy some refreshments.

We really enjoyed meeting the students and saw an abundance of future tribal leaders on campus. We encourage all students, staff, and faculty to come out and participate in our activities. Coming together for activities on campus gives everyone a sense of belonging and it is a positive way to build social skills. Thanks to all of the staff that set up booths and did a good job. We would also like to thank the students that attended.

October is Peace and Nonviolence Month in North Dakota

by Wes Long Feather

October is Peace and Nonviolence Month in North Dakota. The Gandhi Peace Network of North Dakota, in cooperation with Bismarck Parks and Recreation, Bismarck Public Library and ND Council on the Arts and other organizations, schools, and churches, are planning events in Bismarck to celebrate peace. Mayor John Warford has declared October Peace and Nonviolence Month in Bismarck.

October 2nd to 30th Pack the Pantry for Peace—Grand Theater Bismarck- take a non-perishable food item to the movies for the Ruth Meiers Hospitality House and the Abused Adult Resource Center October 16th "Cry, The Beloved Country", Grand Theater and Silent Auction Under a grant from the North Dakota Council on the Arts, Bismarck and Mandan public private and parochial school students, K-3, will draw and mail peace-theme postcards to friends and relatives. Grades 4-6 will create peace posters. The posters will be displayed at area businesses through the Downtowners Association. The students will walk for peace, carrying their posters during school physical education walks. Bismarck and Mandan junior high students will compete in an essay contest while senior high students take part in a debate and speech event. The celebration begins October 2nd at noon with a re-dedication of the Peace Pole located in Custer Park in Bismarck. The ceremony will include the Central Dakota Children's Choir, Native American drummers and children from neighboring public and private schools. Bring a brown bag lunch and enjoy a celebration of community. The Ninth Annual Gandhi Peace Dinner is on Saturday, October 5th at Green Earth Cafe in Bismarck. The six-course, sit down dinner, served by children, should sell out again with proceeds going to Sewa Bharti, a national organization in India which provides education for children and women empowerment. The dinner is $22 with first seating at 6 p.m., second seating at 7:30 p.m. and carry-out available at 5 p.m. Email for confirmed reservations at arunaseth@aol.com or call 223-4234.

"Cry, The Beloved Country," a movie about apartheid in South Africa, will be a part of the celebration on October 16 at Grand Theater, Bismarck. The movies sponsors are Grand Theater and Cinema 100 for the films two free showings. There will be a free-will offering, and each movie-goer will be asked to bring a non-perishable food item for the Ruth Meiers Hospitality House and the Abused Adult Resource Center. A silent auction at the movie theater will raise money for the Gandhi Peace Network - Sherman Brunelle Scholarship at United Tribes Technical College. Last year the silent auction netted $1450 for the NYC 9-11 fund in cooperation with local firefighters.

Bismarck Veterans Memorial Public Library will create a month-long peace exhibit in the library as well as a bookmark listing all the Peace Month activities. The bookmarks, which will include a picture and quote from Gandhi, will be given to all library patrons. Maxwells and Barnes and Noble bookstores in Bismarck will feature special displays of books on peace issues during October.

For more information contact Aruna or Vinod Seth at 223-4234.

Donations can be mailed to 1250 W Highland Acres Rd. Checks made out to IDRF 501(c) (3) tax id #52-1555563.

UTTC's Dean of Institutional Development and Intertribal Programs, Phil Baird, spoke at Peace Pole Rededication ceremonies October 2. The Peace Pole is located in Bismarck's Custer Park. Facts about Alcohol Abuse and Domestic Violence

by Julie Cain

*Battering is a socially learned behavior, and is not the result of substance abuse or mental illness. Men who batter frequently use alcohol abuse as an excuse for their violence. They attempt to rid themselves of responsibility for the problem by blaming it on the effects of alcohol.

- ◆ Many men who batter do not drink heavily and many alcoholics do not beat their wives. Walker's (1984) study of 400 battered women found that 67% of batterers frequently abused alcohol; however, only one-fifth had abused alcohol during all four battering incidents on which data were collected. The study also revealed a high rate of alcohol abuse among non-batters.

- ◆ In one batterers program, 80% of the men had abuse alcohol at the time of the latest battering incident. The vast majority of men, however, also reportedly battered their partner when not under the influence of alcohol.

- ◆ Data on the concurrence of domestic violence and alcohol abuse vary widely, from as low as 25% to as high as 80% of cases.

- ◆ Alcoholism and battering do share some similar characteristics, including:

- both may be passed from generation to generation.
- both involve denial or minimization of the problem
- both involved isolation of the family

- ◆ A battering incident that is coupled with alcohol abuse may be more severe and result in greater injury.

- ◆ Alcoholism treatment does not "cure" battering behavior, both problems must be addressed separately. However, provisions for the women's safety must take precedence.

- ◆ A small percent (1%-14%) of battered women have alcohol abuse problems which is no more than that found in the general female population. A women's substance abuse problems do not relate to the cause of her abuse, although some women may turn to alcohol and other drugs in response to the abuse. To become independent and live free from violence women should receive assistance for substance abuse problems in addition to other supportive services.

- ◆ Men living with women who have alcohol problems often try to justify their violence as a way to control them when they're drunk. A woman's failure to remain substance free is never an excuse for the abuser's violence.

Single student housing project funded

United Tribes Technical College received notification in late September of a $1.6 Million grant from the U. S. Department of Education to expand student housing. The grant award will fund part of a single student housing unit, said UTTC Dean of Students Russell M. Swagger. Swagger is officer for the Student Housing and Construction Project.

"This housing was part of the college master plan," said Swagger. "It provides housing for 84 students."

United Tribes will contribute matching funds for a total project cost of about $2.3 million. The project will help alleviate limited housing availability on the UTTC campus.

Architect and engineering firms have been retained and work on the project begins with the spring construction season in 2003, said Swagger. The units will be located on the south side of campus near the security building. The goal is to have them completed in time for the start of the fall 2003 term.

UTTC President Dr. David. M. Gipp praised the work of Swagger and Dean of Institutional Development Phil Baird for securing the grant. UTTC Technology Coordinator Rick Peek also worked on the project.
