Mahatma Mahatma Gandhi - greeting when meeting

"NAMASTI" is a greeting that Mahatma Gandhi, the great East Indian advocate of social change through non-violence, used to speak when he met his family, friends, and supporters. "NAMASTI" is translated to a word something like the Hebrew word, "SHALOM". It means "PEACE BE WITH YOU" or "MAY YOU WALK IN BEAUTY" or "I LOVE AND APPRECIATE YOU BECAUSE YOU'RE MY FRIEND." In honor of St. Valentine's Day, then, to all: "NAMASTI"!

This week's Trivia Question is about Indian Literature. (Do I hear groans out there??!)
Aaa-nnnn-dddd the question is: 1. What is the name of the Indian writer who won the Pulitzer Prize for Literature? 2. What was the name of the novel for which the writer won the prize? 3. At what university in North Dakota did this writer appear in 1989 to attend a week honoring Indian culture?

Come on, now.....you should all know this! For educated guesses, call Lois Lane at EXT. 227. If you're guesses aren't educated, don't bother! (?)
