MORNING FAWN

by Norma Peltier
March 20, 1991

It was a beautiful spring morning, early one day,
So I decided to go to the river and maybe stay.

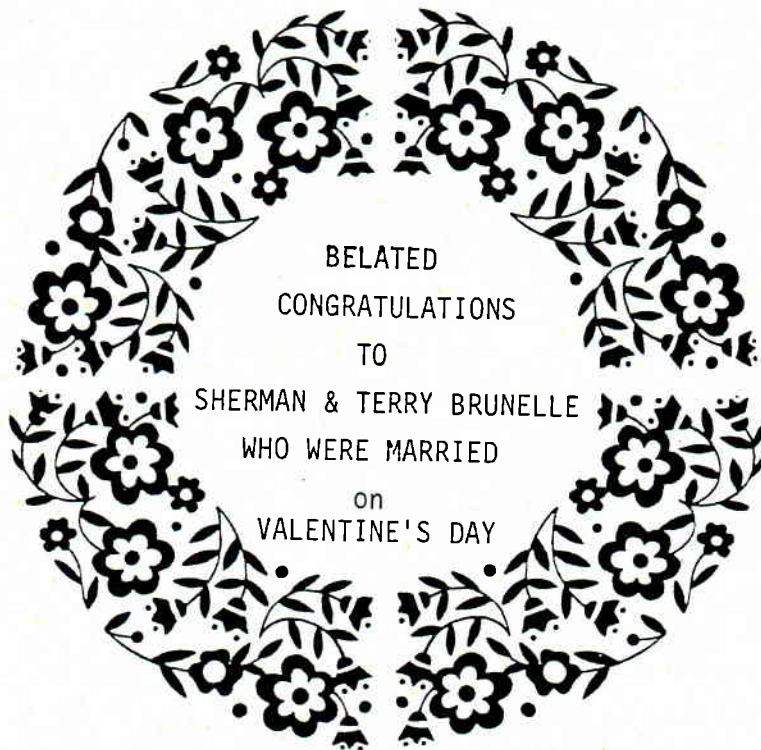

As I got closer, it came into my sight--
A beautiful fawn, magnificently bright.

It stood by the river as it gracefully fed.
I wanted to shoot, but I saw and watched instead.

It was like it knew what was on my mind,
But still it stood quietly, so peaceful and kind.

Then suddenly his head popped up really quick,
And in no time at all, he jumped over a pile of sticks.

Within a flash of a second, he was gone,
But each time I'm at the river--I see the same fawn.

WHAT IS POPULAR IS NOT ALWAYS RIGHT: WHAT IS RIGHT IS NOT ALWAYS POPULAR.
