AIHEC is an international organization composed of 28 tribally controlled institutions of higher education in the United States and Canada. The consortium serves as their major focal

Recently, the consortium has been active in telecommunication, curriculum development and fund raising.

Gipp served as executive director of AIHEC from 1973 to 1977 when he left to assume the presidency at United Tribes. He served as president of the board in 1979 and 1980. Building 1A Conference Center

When planning your UTTC small meetings or special events, consider using the newest meeting place at Tribes - 1A.

Building 1A, which will be named by the Board of Directors at their November meeting, does not replace any of the favorite meeting places already available.

Consider 1A if your meeting or event would be enhanced by the quiet, old Victorian house type setting. 1A is currently able to hold sit down meetings for up to 15, or walk around receptions for twice that number.

1A is available for evening and weekend events as well as 8-5 on weekdays.

TO RESERVE 1A:

- 1) At least one (1) day notice is required.

Book through Elsie Dionne at Switchboard, Administration Building. No "BUMPING" allowed. Once your event is scheduled, you can be assured it is locked in.

- 2) Sign out 1A key at the switchboard at the time of your meeting.

It is anticipated that 1A will be used for meetings where non-UTTC groups will be invited.

Only UTTC Board, UTTC Staff and UTTC Student Senate Officers (V.I.C.A. Chapter Officers, etc.) may sign out the key, and will host these events.

Signing in and out of key will be needed 8-5 weekdays only. It will be opened for your evening or weekend events by your prior reservation.

Your cooperation in following these guidelines is appreciated.

NOT SO SUBTLE HINT: Book 1A EARLY if your department or club has a Christmas gift exchange or pot-luck planned!
