When God gave out brains,
 I thought he said trains,
 And I missed mine!
 When he gave out looks,
 I thought he said books,
 And I didn't want anys!
 And when he gave out noses,
 I thought he said roses,
 and I ordered a big one!
 When he gave out legs,
 I thought he said kegs,
 And I ordered two fats ones!
 And when he gave out ears,
 I thought he said beers,
 so I ordered two long ones!
 When he gave out chins,
 I thought he said gins,
 So I said " Give me a double!"
 God, am I a mess.

THERE'S ALWAYS A LAZY INDIAN

REPEATED FROM FUN AND LAUGHTER
BY ROCKEE McHUGH

People who get up real early in the morning invariably do as the rooster does-- crow about it.

It is no small art to sleep; to achieve it one must keep awake all day.

Having worked himself into his usual fury about the day's events in Washington, the news commentator wound up the show with? "Rain tonight and tomorrow; relative stupidity, 98 percent.

Opportunity knocks only once, but temptation bangs on the door for years.

In a steady stream of traffic, a sedan stopped without warning. Screeching brakes testified to the alertness of a dozen drivers who narrowly averted a "chain accident. "One of the drivers jumped out and demanded an explanation.

The offender was taken by surprise. "We didn't mean to cause any trouble," he explained anxiously. "My wife and I were just trying our safety belts."

Frowning psychiatrist to office nurse on phone: "Just say we're terribly busy-- not 'It's a madhouse!'"

JOKE
By A. K.

I heard these two old squares gossiping. One said "which do you desire most in a husband--brains, wealth, or appearance?" "Appearance," said the other, "sooner the better."

Congratulations:

of a son, January 23rd.

THE JOY DOES NOT REACH ALL
By RUTH MORGAN

"Isn't there anything we can give them" she said
A frown and a sadness touched his brow
Then he abandoned the woman
"Trifles," he said
Across the road
He struggled through the shimmery glass of cold
It threatened to expire him
The sharp rocks jabbed holes into the thin soles of his work shoes
He found comfort in fingering
The tobacco bits in his pocket

In the faded house she sat
Her fingers trembled as she turned the pages
Suddenly the book froze
She struck it, splattering the print
Down the front of her dress
Three of the words flew into her eye
Then tears seeped down the side of her nose
Into her mouth
The taste, "In the beginning..."
She spat it out and moaned
"I want the end."
Dropping back to look at a faded image.

He trudged along in the ditch
avoiding the thorns scattered on the ground
A hawk hung in the sky
He saw on the road his two children playing
A dog jumped on them then ran
In circles
A vague coldness crept around his head
He felt nothing
Then he felt
In his feet and fingers
Something grown weary
Then slowly the frown and sadness
Went from his brow to his heart.
He knelt as if to pray
He could only weep.

THEODORE JAMERSON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL
CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The All-Grade Christmas program was held at the Theodore Jamerson Elementary School on December 18. Following the program, refreshments were served. Much of the program was written and planned by the pupils and their teachers. We asked the teachers to submit the following for our KEYAPI.

T'WAS THE NIGHT OF THE POW WOW

Rewritten by Grades 7 and 8

T'was the night of the Pow Wow and all through the camp, not a dancer was stirring, not even the champ. The bustles were hung by the tepee with care, in hopes the Great Spirit soon would be there. The Indians were nestled all snug in their beds, while visions of wojapi and fry bread danced in their heads. The chief in his war bonnet and I in my beads had just settled down for a long winter's sleep. When out on the grounds there arose such a sound I sprang from my bed and so did my hound. Away to the Flap I flew like a hawk, tore open the leather and I was in shock. The moon on the green of the Pow Wow grounds gave a vision of midnight to the horses and hounds. When what to my unbelieving eyes should behold but a miniature travois and eight white buffalo. With a driver so quiet I could hardly hear it, I knew in a moment it must be the Great Spirit. More rapid than eagles his buffalos they came he whooped and he shouted and called them by name Now Long Chase, now Old Bear, now Brave Bull and Black Hawk, On Morning, on Hallow, on St. John and Picotte. To the tip of the Big Top to the top of the lodge pole, now dash away, dash away, dash away all.

And I heard him exclaim as he drove out of sight, "Happy Pow Wow to all and to all a good night."

UNTITLED
 BY RUTH MORGAN

What is the Spirit of Christmas...
 It is---
 A touch of soft edged memories
 nudging one's heart into smiles for tomorrow.

Where is the Spirit of Christmas...
 It is---
 In the multitude of loving hands
 molding, creating expressions of that love.

When is the Spirit of Christmas...
 It is---
 during that single moment or forever eternity
 where joy, brotherhood and peace overwhelm one's soul.

Why is the Spirit of Christmas...
 Look in the Manger

and wonder.....
